

Wheelchair loan and hire

When someone needs a wheelchair because of illness or disability, it can be difficult to know where to find appropriate help. People with serious long-term conditions are entitled to a wheelchair, provided free of charge by the National Health Service (NHS).

If a wheelchair is needed because of a 'short-term' illness (less than six months) for any reason other than terminal illness, neither the NHS nor the local authority is obliged to supply a wheelchair. To meet this need several local organisations operate loan schemes and there are a number of mobility shops that provide hire services.

The organisations listed in this factsheet provide wheelchairs or mobility scooters for loan or hire on a short term basis. We advise you to book in advance and check the charge or deposit required.

NHS Wheelchair Service

If you, or someone you know, require a wheelchair for long-term use, it may be provided free of charge by the NHS Wheelchair Service. This service can be accessed by a referral from a GP, Consultant, Physiotherapist or Occupational Therapist, and includes a full assessment by an occupational therapist to ensure that each individual's needs are met appropriately.

If the NHS Voucher Scheme operates you may be entitled to a voucher that allows you to buy a wheelchair of a higher value than the one recommended, provided you fund the cost difference. However, wheelchairs can only be purchased from an 'approved supplier'.
